Findings

8.0 Findings

This chapter summarizes the inventory and evaluation of historic architectural resources presented in this HASR. The historic architectural resources inventoried and evaluated were built in 1960, or before, and reflect the major historical events discussed in the historical context. The context explores the major historic events and trends that occurred within the study corridor, which extends south from downtown Fresno, traverses rural Fresno, Kings, and Tulare counties, and terminates in unincorporated Kern County, east of the city of Bakersfield. While most of the resources surveyed are in the cities or immediate vicinity of Fresno and Bakersfield, there are many located in the rural areas of Kings, Tulare, and Kern counties.

The historic status of the 176 historic architectural resources surveyed for this HASR is shown on Table 7-1, above, and the DPR 523 form for each is included in Appendix B. Qualified Investigators (QIs) evaluated all of these resources by applying NRHP and CRHR criteria and in accordance with the California Office of Historic Preservation (OHP) Instructions for Recording Historical Resources (March 1995). None of the historic architectural resources in the APE that were built in 1961 or after (i.e., were less than 50 years old at the time of survey) appeared to have potential for exceptional significance (NRHP Criteria Consideration G). Resources less than 50 years old were exempt from both intensive survey and the streamlined documentation requirements. No historic architectural resources addressed in this HASR required further study to resolve the question of eligibility.

Historic architectural resources built in 1960, or before, that met the HST Section 106 PA definition of streamlined documentation properties because they had been substantially altered did not require full evaluation on DPR 523 forms. The HST Section 106 PA documentation for these 620 streamlined documentation properties is presented in Appendix C.

This HASR was prepared as part of project compliance with applicable sections of National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) and its implementing regulations issued by the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation (ACHP) as these pertain to federally funded undertakings and their impacts on historic properties. This HASR will be submitted to the California State Historic Preservation Officer (SHPO) for its concurrence in the adequacy of the APE and the identification and evaluation findings.

All historic-period architectural resources (built in 1960 or before) that did not meet the HST Section 106 definition for streamlined documentation properties were also evaluated in accordance with Section 15064.5(a)(2)–(3) of the CEQA Guidelines, using criteria outlined in Section 5024.1 of the California Public Resources Code. None of the historic architectural resources surveyed and presented in this HASR is considered a historical resource for the purposes of CEQA. CEQA historical resources are those listed in the CRHR, eligible for listing in the CRHR, or those that meet other local government standards as historical resources, as per CEQA Guidelines Section 15064.5(a)(4).

Section 10.0
Preparer Qualifications

10.0 Preparer Qualifications

The cultural resources study presented in this HASR was conducted by or under the supervision of persons who qualify as historians and/or architectural historians under the Professional Qualification Standards of the U.S. Secretary of the Interior (as defined in 36 C.F.R. Part 61). The following staff meet the standards for “Qualified Investigator” as defined in the HST Section 106 PA.

Rebecca Meta Bunse (M.A., History–Public History, California State University, Sacramento) prepared this HASR and meets the Secretary of the Interior’s standards for both Historian and Architectural Historian. Ms. Bunse is a partner at JRP Historical Consulting, LLC. She has more than 21 years of experience as a consulting historian on a wide variety of historical research and cultural resource management projects, and has conducted research and field evaluation for historic architectural surveys throughout California. For this project, she served as the task manager for the surveys; directed QI staff; conducted research, reconnaissance, documentation for streamlined documentation properties, and intensive-level fieldwork; delineated the historic architectural APE; wrote the HASR and the HPSR; and wrote and directed the preparation of the DPR 523 forms.

Christopher McMorris (M.S. in Historic Preservation, Columbia University) reviewed and edited the HASR and property evaluations. Mr. McMorris is a partner at JRP Historical Consulting, LLC, and has more than 12 years of experience conducting a wide variety of historical research, public history, and historic preservation projects. Based on his education and experience, he qualifies as a historian/architectural historian under the Secretary of the Interior’s Professional Qualification Standards (as defined in 36 CFR Part 61).

Toni Webb (B.F.A., Historic Preservation, Savannah College of Art & Design) was the lead historian/ architectural historian for this project. Ms. Webb conducted research and field survey, data management and graphics production, and preparation of property evaluations, as well as contributing to the HASR and HPSR. Ms. Webb has more than 10 years of experience in public history and historic preservation with JRP. Based on her level of experience and education, Ms. Webb qualifies as an architectural historian under the Secretary of the Interior’s Professional Qualification Standards (as defined in 36 CFR Part 61).

Cheryl Brookshear (M.S., Historic Preservation, University of Pennsylvania) conducted field survey, field research, and prepared DPR forms for this project, as well as contributing to the HASR and HPSR. She meets the Secretary of the Interior’s standards for both Historian and Architectural Historian. Ms. Brookshear is an Architectural Historian with JRP Historical Consulting, LLC, and has conducted research and field evaluation for historic architectural surveys throughout California.

Joseph Freeman (M.A., History, University of California, Riverside) has nearly 3 years of experience in cultural resource management and historical research projects and is a historian at JRP Historical Consulting, LLC. Mr. Freeman has performed field survey at locations throughout California and conducted research on primary and secondary source material. Additionally, he has helped produce various historic architectural survey and evaluation reports. Mr. Freeman qualifies as a Historian under the Secretary of the Interior’s standards. His tasks for this project include field survey, primary and secondary research, DPR 523 form preparation, and contributions to the HASR and HPSR.

Heather Norby (M.A., History, University of California, Berkeley) meets the Secretary of the Interior’s standards for Historian. Ms. Norby, a staff historian at JRP Historical Consulting, LLC, has 2 years of experience as a consulting historian on a variety of historical research and cultural resource management projects, and has conducted research and field evaluation for historic architectural surveys throughout California. Her experience prior to joining JRP includes 4 years of teaching U.S. history at community colleges in the San Francisco Bay and Sacramento areas. For this project, she conducted fieldwork, field research, prepared DPR 523 forms, and contributed to the HASR and HPSR.

Steven Melvin (M.A., History–Public History, California State University, Sacramento) has 5 years of experience in cultural resource management and historical research projects and is a historian at JRP Historical Consulting, LLC. Mr. Melvin has performed field survey at locations throughout California and conducted research in primary and secondary source material. He qualifies as a Historian under the Secretary of the Interior’s standards. Mr. Melvin’s tasks for this project include research, DPR 523 form preparation, and contributions to the HASR.
